Tonight on the show, Rob invites some local friends he's made playing the mobile phone game Ingress. Our guests chat about the crazy things they've done in this game about making triangles out of virtual landmarks from the creators of Pokemon Go. We talk about the crazy stories and the expectations of the game to come. The long conversation on this game though doesn't stop us from covering the gaming news of the week though, which includes a brand new Nintendo Direct announcing the return of several WiiU favorites!

Also in the news:
