

Arcade Infinity has been saved!!!

Written by DarkTetsuya

Tuesday, 11 January 2011 23:09

Great news for those of you who were as saddened as I was to hear the news that the SoCal arcade, Arcade Infinity was closing its doors after about a decade of being opened. Word just came out that AI has officially been saved! The owners of Diamond Plaza have graciously stepped in and now AI can remain open!

But for those of you planning on attending the get-together, the best part is that's still happening! However I'd heard DJTyrant may not be going, but stay tuned I'll keep you guys updated! (If he can't make it I'll see if I can't come up with something to go up on the 15th, keep watching the site for further developments!)

You can read the full details of the good news (there's a caveat, but if all goes well AI should be around for at least a little bit longer) here on the facebook page for the '10 years strong' meetup!