On our labor day episode of OLR, we start with a LIVE phone call from our pal Bobby Blackwolf, who is in Seattle at Penny Arcade Expo 2009. We get all the updates on things you might have seen, and some things that were a bit under the radar as well. We get into some gaming news in Part A as well including DSi exclusive games, and big updates to the Wii internet channel. The fun keeps going in Part B with our usually colorful mailbag segment, as well a debate on the good of social networking being added to an upcoming racing game. Also, why is Sony producing a reality show and why are people getting excited about the prize? However, could Sonys 3D gaming plans revolutionize gaming? Discussion on all this and MORE including your chatroom comments, phone calls and emails on the show where EVERY gamer has a voice: Orange Lounge Radio!

{enclose OLR_337_090609.mp3}