We start of this weeks show with some gaming memories, leading to a discussion on Final Fantasy XV hype, and which games in the series started off with a bang and which maybe got a little better after the equivilant of a television "season". In gaming news this week, an era has come to an end with the news that new Xbox 360 consoles will no longer be manufactured. What were the greatest things that the 360 brought to gaming culture? We discuss along with our live participants...

Also in the news:
