

After a week off we take an opportunity to recap some of the big headlines for the week that we missed including the fact that Gamestop is changing yet again, getting into the comic book business as well as looking for a new buyer. We then dive into the news from this week with our live chatters after talking about our gaming weeks, with stories that include Pokemon Go levels being at the highest they've been since the original hysteria surrounding the launch. Sounds like lots of people want to have a friends list and trade Pokemon!

Also in the news:

- * Google to start their own gaming platform?
- * Mice and Keyboards soon to work on Xbox One?
- * Omega Labyrinth Z denied local release
- * Labo support for other Switch Games
