

Orange Lounge Radio Episode 316

Written by skie

Sunday, 29 March 2009 15:29 - Last Updated Sunday, 29 March 2009 15:30

On this weeks edition of Orange Lounge Radio, we talked a lot about music games, including a highly anticipated game about The Beatles getting dated for mid-September. Also, could Van Halen be getting their own Guitar Hero Arcade Game? We also have an update on the Gibson lawsuit over Guitar Hero, perhaps you will find it as amusing as we did! :D

In Part B of the show, are both Toys R Us and Amazon about to give Gamestop some competition in the used video game market? The stock market sure seems to think so. Also, what would you think about a kiosk at your local wal-mart run by gamefly where you could rent video games on the spot?

All this and more including your chatroom antics, live phone calls and e-mails on the video game show where every gamer has a voice, Orange Lounge Radio!

{enclose OLR_316_030809.mp3}