Sony's State of Play event this week gave us updates on Playstation 4 titles for this year, as well as upcoming Playstation VR games. Although we were warned nothing major for PS5 was coming, people on social media still craved more. At least there was some Godfall footage! How did we as the hosts feel about the event, and what did our live participants think? We find out what people are thinking about not just Sony this holiday, but Microsoft, Nintendo, Intellevision, and much more!
