Tonight we tackle a topic that has effected us all during our pandemic and we talk about mental health. How can video games help us during these times and have a positive impact on our mental health? Conversely, what are things we can do to avoid making bad decisions for our mental health? Our special guest E, a gamer who hosts the podcast Am I Mental? joins us to discuss these questions and much more. We also get into a lot of gaming news for the week including a very interesting partnership between Gamestop and Microsoft. Could Microsoft have found a way to nudge the Xbox Series X into a few more homes?
