The name "Xbox Live" is fading away in favor of the name "Xbox Network". Why would Microsoft be wanting to change things up from a name they've had for over 10 years? Could part of the reason be due to some of the horror stories that we've heard of how people treat others on Xbox Live sometimes? We discuss this and much more in gaming news this week!

(Due to Technical Problems while broadcasting live, we posted late this week. The audio is from our recording on twitch and may have some imperfections as a result. Sorry about that!)
